

3 Ways to Win With Quality Data and Insights

Every project produces a lot of data. But that data isn't helpful if it's not up to date or accessible. On-demand access to your data could save your company over 200 hours* each year. That could be the competitive advantage you need to push your business ahead of the rest.

64%

of managers* are still using manual tools and end up with incomplete and inaccurate insights.

Data Quality

To produce quality work, you need quality data. A single platform collects data at every stage of the project in real time.

50%

of construction executives say a lack of integration is their biggest obstacle to effectively using their data.

Data Access

Once you've collected all your data, everything is located in one place so you always have the full picture.

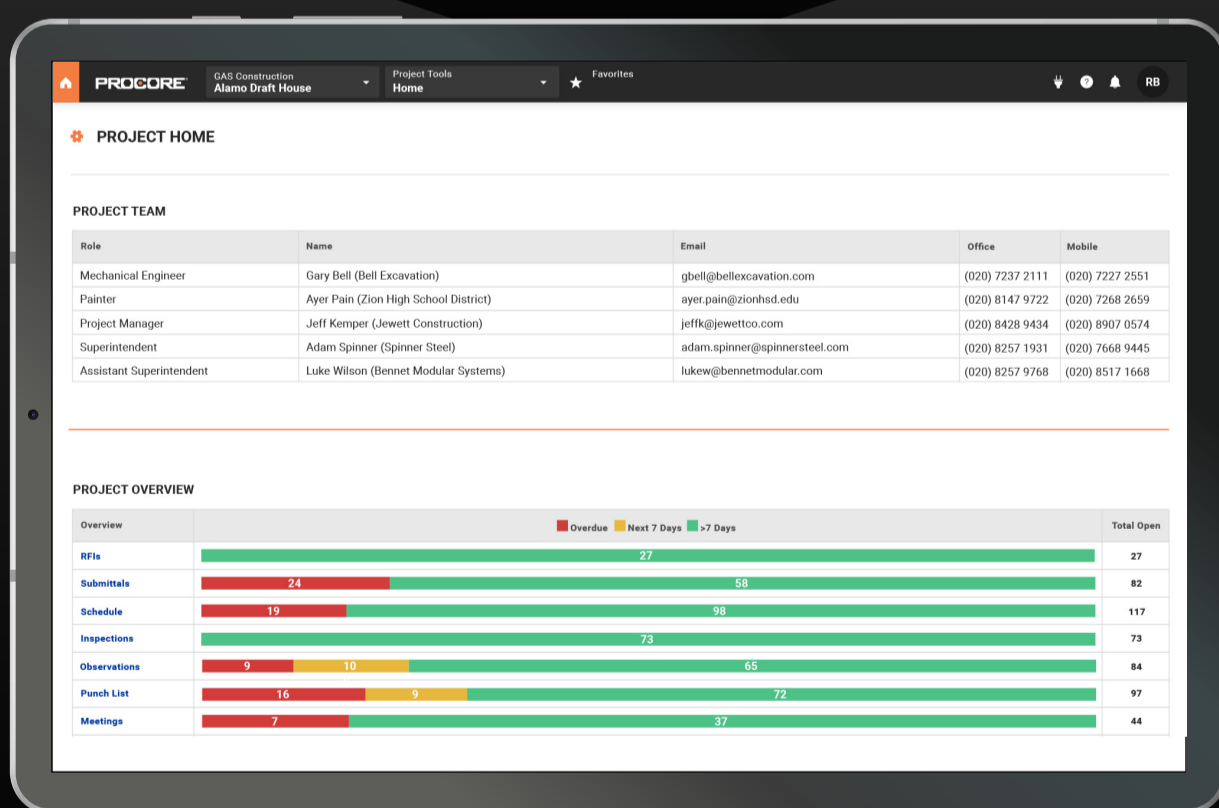

Rework can climb as high as

5%

of a project's contract value.

Data In Real Time

Real-time data means fewer delays, improved risk analysis and the ability to more accurately benchmark against your competitors.

On-demand access to visibility of performance can save an average of $287k annually*.

Procore offers a single source of truth that ensures data is accurate, accessible and updated in real time, leading to better collaboration, more informed decision making, and a happier, more confident team.

Download our eBook, Data Insights In Construction, to see the full ROI you can expect from Procore.

Get eBook

*Procore industry research 2020